

Date: 2005 December 9

Author: Jakob Sagatowski

Time: ~18.00

Location: ~60Km south of Linköping, Sweden

Temperature: Around 0°C.

Observation report #10

Today I went to my girlfriends house on the countryside to relax. To my satisfaction I saw that there were some holes in the clouds and that I might have luck to be able to take out the scope. As I got there most of the clouds were gone, so I took out my 80mm (3.1") scope together with a standard photo tripod. I wanted to get a view of my first Mars in many many years. The views of Mars were pretty bad, and I could only look at it between the clouds. I realized that this would not work as I saw that the clouds got thicker, and packed my stuff and walked in to play some super mario kart with my girlfriend and hers family instead.

